Mr. Davidson admits that if the plays had come down to us without any author's name.

they would unhesitatingly have been attributed to Bacon. The article gives a brief summary of the results reached in Davidson's book, soon to be published, in which he shows Shakespeare to have been steeped in almost every kind of vice. to have been a fornicator, adulterer, usurer, oppressor of the poor, drankard, systematic liar, and forger of pedigree dying in the prime of life from the results of a three-days' drunken spree. He next shows that we have no record that Shakespeare over owned a library or even a book, and that not a single scrap of his manuscript has come down to us, and that there is nothing to show that Shakespeare was not very illiterate.

The Standard, referring to the Manitoba Railway, says :- The more clearly the rights of the question are understood the more emphatic will be the opinion here that the Manitobans are trying to derive an unfair advantage from their geographical position. The best prospect for a settlement lies in the direction of a compromise which, as a preliminary ought to be begun by the immediate suspension of operations, on the Manitoba Railway line. No efforts should be spared to conciliate the Manitobans, but they must be made to perform their duties as British subjects and Canadian citizens.

LONDON, 20th August. On the express tain between Wellington and Shrawsbury a shocking crime was attempted on Saturday night, which, though of frequent recurrence, in the annals of English criminals, does not seem to hasten John Bull to renounce the railway-carriage system for American trains, in which similar outrages would be impossible. Catherine Schrogg, a groverness returning from a vacation, gives the following account of an assault of which she came so near being the victim :- " As the train was leaving Wellington for Shrewsbury a rough-looking man sprang into the compartment where I was alone. I thought of jumping out, but the train was already going at a high rate of speed. I began to read. He interrupted me, saying that he was on his way to Shrowsbury to see his wife, whom he had not met for some weeks. . made no answer: He then approached me, put his arm around my neck and attempted to assault me. I fought bard and screamed loudly. He beat me violently, trying to render me unconscious. I made for the door, opened it and was about to spring from the train, when I found that my dress was caught in the door and that I would be dragged under the train A gentleman in the next compartment saw my condition and pulled me into his compartment through the window. My assaulter fellowed screaming with baffled fury. But the gentleman who had rescued me draw a sword-cane and immediately retreated."

After the report of the occurrence had been made to the police the whole line of the rallway was searched for the blackguard. He was last found in an unconscious condition, baving jumped from the train when at a speed of fift miles an hour, to escape the consequences of his act. Twelve hours later he regained consciousness, and will to-morrow be arraigned, charged with attempting murder and outrage. INTERESTING DISCOVERY IN LONDON.

LONDON, 31st August. The excavations now proceeding in Piccadilly on the site of the new premises of the Junior Travelers' Club have brought to light many interesting objects. The houses which are built on that portion of the thoroughfare have for their foundations a series of well-formed arches at a depth of about sixteen feet from the surface. In piercing some of these great difficult was experienced on account of the toughness of the substance of which they are constructed. This having been overcome, a series of subterraneous passages, apparently connected, were discovered. These were full of gases and contained a vast quantity of rubbish, among which have been disclosed numerous articles of interest. Not the least interesting is a red granite tomb dated 1,509, some bronze armour, several fowl ing-pieces, a righly embossed lamp and a large quantity of vellum manuscripts. The vaults have been only partly explored, and further dis-coveries are anticipated.

THE END OF A PIEND. PARIS, 31st August. · Pranzini, the murderer of Madame Reguault, her maid, and her maid's child, was guillotined at 5 o'clock this morning. He made no confession, Vast crowds waited about the place of excontion during the whole night and kept up a constant howling and yelling. The din was horrible. When the chaplain who was to officiate at the execution arrived, at 4.30 a.m., the mass of people was so great that he was almost prevented from reaching the gate of the prison. Pranzini marched from his cell to the scaffold with a firm step and defiant air. When the executioners seized him he resisted and fought desperately: He demanded that they let him alone. The executioners overpowered him and threw him upon the machine, and in an instant had him Hongkong and Shanghai Bank Shares-129 duced with infinitely greater rapidity by masecurely bound. Immediately the terrible knife was started. It descended with horrible slowness at first, but then quickened and the head of the murderer rolled into the basket. The mol became very disorderly during the progress of the execution.

Hongkong Observatory, 30th September, 1887 HOW PILLS ARE MADE.

The custom of taking medicine in the form of pills dates far back in history. The object is to enable us to swallow-easily in a condensed form disagreeable and nauseous, but very useful, drugs. To what vast dimensions pill-taking has grown may be imagined when we say that in England alone about 2,000,000,000 (two thousand million) Bottles, Key Brand. pills are consumed every year. In early days POMERANZEN BITTERS. pills were made slowly by hand, as the demand was comparatively small. To-day they are pro- RIDGES, SHOT, &c., &c., &c.

the various ingredients employed. No form of medication can be better than a pill, provided only it is intelligently prepared But right here occurs the difficulty. Easy as it may seem to make a pill, or a million of them, they are suitable for a vessel about 600 tons, or there are really very few pills that can be honestly sommended for popular use. Most of them either undershoot or overshoot the mark. As every. Engine Boiles. I 6-H.P.
